I'LL GIVE YOU THE SUN: JANDY NELSON

1. task

Your task is to complete an internal monologue of the „concerned person“. Whether she should continue in narration, whether she should tell him, what would she cause if she told him.

I stop. “Noah, I have something to tell you too.” He turns around and I start talking—it’s the only way. “I have a feeling after I tell you this, you’ll never speak to me again, so first I want to say how sorry I am. I should’ve told you ages ago, but I was too afraid I’d lose you forever if I did.” I look down. “I still love you the most. I always will.”

2. task

Complete the reflection essay (...) of the narrator, what Noe thinks at that moment.

“What is it?” he says.

I am my brother’s keeper, I tell myself, and then I just say it. “You didn’t not get into CSA. What I mean is you didn’t apply. That day?” I take a breath and blow out the words from the darkest place in me: “I never mailed your application.”

He blinks. And blinks. And blinks some more. His face is blank and I don’t know what’s happening inside him, ...

3. task

Replace the expression „ he’s lost all his buttons “ with an idiom.

... when all of a sudden he throws up his arms and jumps into the air and his face is awash in rip-roaring joy—no, ecstasy: This is ecstasy.

“Did you hear me right?”

“Yes!” he cries. Now he’s laughing wildly and I’m sure he’s lost all his buttons ...

4. task

Write a short dialogue about: what could the protagonist mess up. (at least 3 replicas for each person)

... until out of his mouth flies, “I thought I sucked! I thought I sucked!
